Alexandria is a creative advocate with a passion for solving complex problems.

Alexandria Matic carries on a broad litigation practice at Tyr LLP, with significant experience in international and domestic arbitration, commercial disputes, medical negligence, and information and technology litigation. She also acts as pro bono counsel on a variety of sport and public interest matters.

Alexandria obtained her J.D. from the University of Toronto in 2018, where she pursued opportunities to advance human rights and develop her advocacy skills. From 2017 to 2018, she co-led a chapter of Amnesty International's Digital Verification Corps – an award-winning program that trains students to collect and verify citizen evidence of human rights abuses. Alexandria also represented Canada at the 2018 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot, and received the Joan Lax Memorial Award for best individual oralist at the 2017 Winkler Class Action Moot.
